WHAT?

There are Many Facets of Family History Work!

SEE WORKSHEET

Elder Boyd K. Packer from “The Holy Temple”

“If you can start with what you have and with what you know, it’s a little hard to find an excuse to delay. And it may be spiritually dangerous to delay it too long.

“Family history work has the power to do something for the dead. It has an equal power to do something to the living. Family history work of Church members has a refining, spiritualizing, tempering influence on those who are engaged in it.

“We gathered together everything we had, and in the course of a few weeks we were amazed at what we were able to accomplish. The thing that was most impressive, however, was the fact that we began to have experiences that told us somehow that we were being guided, that there were those beyond the veil who were interested in what we were doing...We began to learn by personal experience that this research into our families is an inspired work. We came to know that an inspiration will follow those who move into it. It is just a matter of getting started.

“Once we started, we found the time. Somehow we were able to carry on all of the other responsibilities. There seemed to be an increased inspiration in our lives because of this work.

“But the decision, the action, must begin with the individual. The Lord will not tamper with our agency. If we want a testimony of family history and temple work, we must do something about that work.”

How—Do I decide where to start???

Consider this first: Picking the right project to start with is KEY to being successful in family history work.

Divide the activities on the worksheet into these two categories. Write on index cards or post-it notes as mentioned below.

“Shuffle” your project cards as you evaluate using the questions on the worksheet. Likely one or two projects will stand out to you. Decide on a starting project. Does the Spirit confirm this as your best place to start?

FAMILY HISTORY IS PERISHABLE

- Memories fade
- Stories die with a family member
- Disaster/ time destroys documents
- Irreplaceable information is lost

Things I feel I SHOULD do:	Things I would LIKE to do:
Make your own list...	Write the items on index cards or post-it notes
	This will help during the evaluation process

Things I wish I had known when I started out➡

- Pick one project and stick to it until it is completed!
- Take organized notes from day one!
- Don't judge the value of memorabilia or information until you have more experience.
- If you have a question, ASK for help!
- READ EVERYTHING CAREFULLY!
- DON'T RELY ON YOUR MEMORY—TAKE OR COPY NOTES AND TRACK THE WORK YOU DO!
- Learn navigation in FamilySearch and other online programs using information you already know.
- One spelling for a name is a “modern invention”. Be open minded about the spelling of names. See the Ocuptyshun Census Taker handout <https://www.preservingtime.org/ocupsyshun-census-taker.html>

- IN FACT, BE OPEN MINDED ABOUT ALMOST EVERYTHING IN OLD RECORDS!
- LOCATION can often be more helpful in finding your family than dates. Adjust your search parameters to reflect different locations an individual or family lived in.
- Remember to search for a woman using both her married name(s) and maiden name. Also search for "Mrs. John Doe" using Mrs. + her husband's name.
- Expand the date range for a person's birth when searching. A person may have lied about their age or the information may have been given by someone else. If no results are found, expand the range even farther.
- Search a database with parents' names only to see if additional children are found in the records.
- Don't assume that two children with the same name in a family are the same child. If a child died, parents would often name a child that came later the same name.
- If a family appears at the top or bottom of a census page, always turn the page to see if additional family members are located on adjacent pages. Keep your eyes open for other members of your family. Until recently, families generally lived and moved together.
- When searching, make note of others in the record. Many times they will be family members, neighbors or associates (acronym: FANs). This information can help you locate additional information in other records.
- ASK: does this make sense? Children were not born before their parents or many years after their parents' death.
