

Am I Making Progress in Fulfilling My Calling?

My Date to Evaluate: _____

#1- Do I understand the basic responsibilities of my calling?

- Do I access the training available when I have questions?

#2- Have I studied the doctrines of Temple and Family History Work?

- Do understand and feel the Spirit of Elijah in my life?
- Can I find the video and handout of “The Promised Blessings of Family History” to share with those I work with?

#3- Am I making time to experience family history work for myself?

- Am I especially making the effort of save any PERISHABLE family history information that I have access to?

#4- Am I becoming comfortable with FamilySearch.org?

- Am I willing to ask for help if there are things I don’t understand so I can keep moving forward?

#5- Am I reaching out to help others in my ward and family with family history?

- Do I approach those that would be the most open to family history at the right time?
- Do I ask those I work with: WHAT IS THEIR GOAL? What do they have or know that is perishable?
- Do I pray to be led by the Holy Ghost as I work with others?
- Do I prepare a personalized lesson?
- Am I sensitive to their sensitive situations?
- Do I quit while they are still excited?
- Do I invite them to act and schedule a follow-up visit? Do I actually take time to follow up with them?

Do I remember the following?

ALWAYS AND FOREVER—ONE ON ONE WITH AN INDIVIDUAL OR FAMILY IS BEST!

But, am I willing to work with youth groups, classes or other activities as needed?

#6- Am I PROACTIVE in fulfilling my calling?

- If at all possible...Am I serving at the Mapleton Family History Center?
- Am I reaching out to individuals and family in my ward and my own family?
- Am I sharing my testimony of this work?
- Do I coordinate with others in my ward and our priesthood leadership?
